

9001 Wilshire

Welcoming visitors as they enter, the contemporary yet classic Water Veil is situated in the lobby of a Beverly Hills office building. Water falls down the translucent stainless steel screen in cascading waves and disappears into a white marble-clad base covered with white river rocks. Lights located near the feature's marble foundation highlight the texture and flow of the water that flows from the ceiling.

Type

Water veil in a main lobby

Materials

stainless steel screen with marble clad base

Location

Beverly Hills, California

Architect

Kanner Architects