

Hollywood Hills Residence

This exotic fire and water feature is located in a private residence in the Hollywood Hills, high above Los Angeles, CA. The fountain consists of three flames on top of a shallow reflecting pool made from rough basalt. Water cascades down the textured stone disappearing into a concealed basin below, along with polished beach pebbles.

Type

Fire & water feature in a residential garden

Materials

basalt, stainless steel nozzles

Location

Los Angeles, CA

Architect

Korn Randolph