

Ladd

Residents and visitors enjoy the curved water veil as they enter the lobby of a high-end residential building in Portland, Oregon. Water gently falls down the stainless steel screen, enclosed by a brushed stainless steel frame, providing life and movement to an otherwise stagnant space. The custom water feature is approximately 25 ft. wide by 6 ft. tall and illuminated by a series of underwater lights.

Type

Curved Water Veil for a residential lobby

Materials

stainless steel screen, brushed stainless steel frames

Location

Portland, OR

Architect

Ankrom Moisan Architects