

Millennium Bostonian

The large fountain, approximately 12 ft. in diameter by 3 ft. tall, sits in the courtyard of the Millennium Bostonian Hotel, and is composed of two half-round copper structures, topped with absolute black granite. Streams of water jump between the two structures leading to a series of unique water textures and movement. The water effects are highlighted by underwater lights in the center of the fountain, as well as surrounding the feature.

Type

Water feature at a hotel courtyard

Materials

copper with bronze patina,
absolute black granite

Location

Boston, MA

Architect

Jinnie Kim Design