

Woodacres Stainless Steel Cube

Water disappears into a shallow bed of black rocks, beneath the mirror-polished stainless steel cube. This classic cube design can be made into most any dimension for all indoor or outdoor areas, and is particularly appropriate for modern spaces that are looking for an eye catching, yet soothing focal point. A single nozzle continually pours water from the top of the cube's pool to enable the water to over flow, creating interesting water effects and patterns as it cascades down the highly reflective surface.

TYPE
Exterior Water Sculpture

MATERIALS
Stainless steel, beach pebbles, granite

LOCATION
Los Angeles, CA

ARCHITECT
Vertoch Design