

Summitridge Water Walls

Two indoor water veils flank the entrance of a contemporary Beverly Hills, CA private residence. Created from stainless steel and copper, the companion water features bring in a soothing organic ambiance to this highly stylized modern home. Translucent and clean, the water veils allow sunlight to bounce around the interior space, as well as serving as a natural partition from the entryway to the living area.

Replicating the aesthetic of the living area, two water walls line the interior of the master closet room. Framed by marble, the polished stainless steel walls create a variety of textures as the water descends down the surface and disappears into a recessed basin.
