

Tamarack Junction

Two bold Water Veils flank the entrance of The Tamarack Junction restaurant in Reno, Nevada, as they welcome and simultaneously beckon guests. Made from stainless steel, with a copper frame, and brick base, the dual water features serve as a lovely backdrop to the lounge, melding with its rustic inspired architecture and interior design.

TYPE
Framed Water Veils

MATERIALS
Stainless steel, copper

LOCATION
Reno, NV

ARCHITECT
MBA Architecture & Interior Design