

Dana Point Paneled Water Veil

Water Studio brought to life a client's vision by creating distinctive decorative panels that encase a water veil within their contemporary home in Dana Point, CA. This structure serves as a partition between the living room and stairwell. The organic and open pattern of the panels enables both light and the texture of the water waves to be visible. Positioned as a focal point, this feature captures attention from the open living room and kitchen, mirroring the fluidity of water from the stunning coastal views into the heart of their home.

Type

Framed Water Veil

Materials

Stainless steel

Location

Dana Point, CA

General Contractor

Richard Doan Construction