

Alcazar Palm Springs

At the Alcazar boutique hotel in Palm Springs, CA, three elegant water veils transform an exterior partition wall into a captivating focal point. These mesmerizing water features create a soothing visual separation between the pool area and the guest rooms, bringing life to an otherwise still space. Cascading water flows continuously down transparent stainless steel mesh, disappearing into beds of black river rocks below. Soft lighting and the gentle sound of flowing water invite guests to serene seating areas on either side, offering a tranquil escape and a moment of pure relaxation.
